Announcing the Diana Korzenik Fund for Emerging Scholars

Brandeis University Press is delighted to announce the new Diana Korzenik Fund promoting the publication of books by emerging scholars, in the Brandeis Series on American Jewish History, Culture, and Life. Created to help launch emerging scholars, this new enterprise seeks innovative, well-written, significant scholarly specialized studies, which may be based on revised doctoral dissertations, in all areas of American Jewish history, culture and life. Inquiries may be directed to pressinfo@brandeis.edu, and should be submitted in the form of a proposal, which consists of a cover letter describing the project and a completed manuscript revised for book publication.
